

APM Juniors Committee

Chair - Philippa McFarlane

I am a junior doctor in London, currently doing a part time MSc in Palliative Care at the Cicely Saunders Institute. My keen interest in palliative care developed during medical school and my experiences include the Princess Alice Hospice, The Royal Marsden Hospital and Trinity Hospice.

The junior APM committee members are the future of the specialty and I look forward to supporting pre-specialty doctors through this challenging and dynamic time. The juniors committee and I aim to develop the community of those interested in palliative care but not yet in speciality training, highlighting events and opportunities. Please do get in touch directly if you have any suggestions and thoughts about what you would like the association and the juniors committee to offer.

@Pgmcfarlane

Secretary - Eleanor Hendicott

Currently a West Midlands based foundation doctor, I'm hoping to begin IMT in the next few years. My passion for palliative medicine began at med school and I'm excited to bring this enthusiasm to support the Juniors committee as secretary.

Beyond medicine, I enjoy baking, playing music and exploring the outdoors.

@EHendicott

Careers & Mentorship Co-ordinator - Isobel Morton

Hello! My name is Isobel and I am an Internal Medicine Trainee (IMT) currently working at St Joseph's Hospice in East London. I am really thrilled to have been elected as the Careers and Mentorship Co-ordinator of the APM Juniors Committee, and look forward to working with other members of the APM (both Junior and beyond!), to help support those interested in the field of Palliative Medicine.

@dr_discobel

Education Co-ordinator - Angus Grant

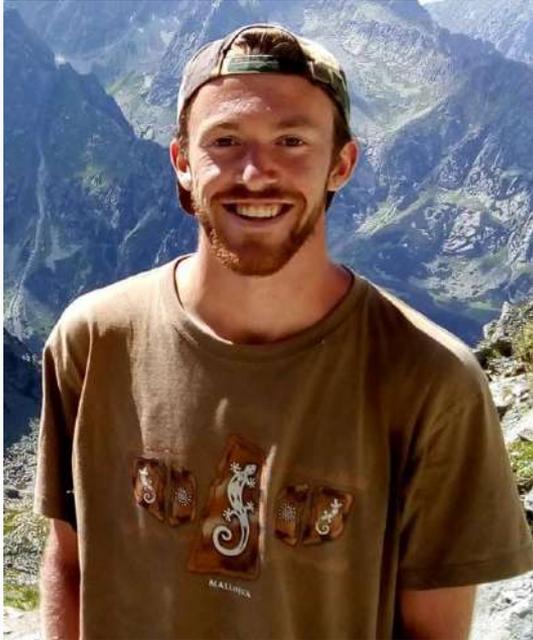

My name's Angus and I'm a foundation doctor working in the West Midlands. I am excited to bring my experience as event organiser for my university's palliative medicine society to this new role, and help engage more medical students with the APM's learning opportunities.

In my free time I enjoy running and ran my first marathon last year to raise money for my local hospice.

Conference Co-ordinator - Francis Jasiewicz

Hi! My name is Francis and I am really looking forward to working with the Juniors Committee as Conference Co-ordinator. I am currently an FY2 working in Manchester, and am keen to use my experience of working in committees and organising teaching sessions to promote palliative care to the next generation of doctors.

Outside of work, I enjoy hiking, cooking and a wide range of music.

Research Co-ordinator - Alice Rogers

Hey! I'm Alice and I'm an academic foundation doctor in Oxford researching end of life in Parkinson's disease. I want to make palliative care research more accessible for juniors, and to foster a supportive community of researchers across the UK!

Outside of medicine, I enjoy baking and open water swimming.

@alicerogers95

Communications Co-ordinator - Hannah Rowley

I'm Hannah, a foundation doctor working in Newcastle. My interest in palliative care began with a Death Café in medical school and grew through a placement in a hospice.

As Communications Co-ordinator, I hope to increase engagement from new and existing followers, and collaborate with other specialty-specific and medical education social media accounts.

In my free time I enjoy football, netball, skiing, running, open-water swimming and hiking with my border collie. Indoors, I enjoy cooking – ideally for guests.

@hannahw156

