

APM Juniors Committee

Chair - Philippa McFarlane

I am an Academic Clinical Fellow in palliative care in London, currently in my IMT2 year. My keen interest in palliative care developed during medical school and my experiences include the Princess Alice Hospice, The Royal Marsden Hospital and Trinity Hospice.

The junior APM members are the future of the specialty and I look forward to supporting pre-specialty doctors through this challenging and dynamic time. The juniors committee and I aim to develop the community of those interested in palliative care but not yet in speciality training, highlighting events and opportunities. Please do get in touch directly if you have any suggestions and thoughts about what you would like the association and the juniors committee to offer.

@Pgmcfarlane

Secretary - Eleanor Hendicott

Hello, I'm Eleanor and I am an Internal Medicine Trainee in the Wessex deanery. My passion for palliative medicine began at medical school, and I have since enjoyed a year out of training to work as a Clinical Fellow at a Shropshire based hospice.

As secretary, I support the committee to deliver year-round events and to provide exciting opportunities for pre-specialty doctors interested in palliative medicine. Please get in touch if you have any questions or ideas for the APM Juniors – we would be more than happy to help!

@EHendicott

Careers & Mentorship Co-ordinator - Isobel Morton

Hello! My name is Isobel and I am an Internal Medicine Trainee (IMT) currently working at St Joseph's Hospice in East London. I am really thrilled to have been elected as the Careers and Mentorship Co-ordinator of the APM Juniors Committee, and look forward to working with other members of the APM (both Junior and beyond!), to help support those interested in the field of palliative medicine.

@dr_discobel

Education Co-ordinator - Angus Grant

My name's Angus and I'm a Foundation doctor working in the West Midlands. I am excited to bring my experience as event organiser for my university's palliative medicine society to this new role, and help engage more medical students with the APM's learning opportunities.

In my free time I enjoy running and ran my first marathon last year to raise money for my local hospice.

Conference Co-ordinator - Francis Jasiewicz

Hi everyone, my name is Francis and I currently work as a Clinical Fellow in clinical trials in Manchester. I am the conference co-ordinator for the APM Juniors committee, so I'm in charge of organising our annual conference to share the latest in palliative care with you all. Hope to see you there!

@jas_francis

Research Co-ordinator - Alice Rogers

Hi! I am Alice, an IMT1 working just outside of Brighton. I am the research rep, and my aim is get more juniors involved in academic palliative care. I got involved in palliative care research whilst a medical student and absolutely loved it! Being involved in the palliative care community has helped me care better for patients and their families at the end of life. Outside of work, I enjoy sea swimming and have recently taken up rollerskating.

@alicerogers95

Communications Co-ordinator - Hannah Rowley

I'm Hannah, an ACCS medicine CT1 working in the North East. My interest in palliative care began during medical school, and since then I have done a hospice placement and an FY2 rotation in palliative care.

As Communications Co-ordinator, I hope to increase engagement from new and existing followers of the APMJ, and collaborate with other specialty-specific and medical education social media accounts.

In my free time I enjoy football, netball, skiing, running, open-water swimming and hiking with my border collie. Indoors, I enjoy cooking – ideally for guests.

@hannahw156

