About the APM Race Equity Committee

We are looking to extend the membership of the APM Race Equity Committee (REC) and for that purpose seeking four new APM members who are working within a palliative care setting and from minoritised racialised groups. We would be especially keen to recruit allied health and nursing professionals. Interested individuals will share our commitment to the values outlined and the wellbeing of the people we support.

The APM REC aims to support palliative care organisations and teams in development of environments which actively promote equal rights and opportunities and racial diversity. We are committed to challenging racist and discriminatory behaviour and supporting an inclusive and equitable environment for patients, professionals and stakeholders. Committee stands:

1. To identify issues and incidents around race equity among the palliative care teams and hospices in United Kingdom
2. To collect robust information and views of palliative care professionals and patients in line with policy statement
3. To advise APM on developing processes to address issues identified through data collection
4. To raise the profile of race equity amongst professionals and organisations involved in palliative care and ensure equal opportunity
5. To support and advocate training for palliative care professionals to deal with issues around race equity
6. To support APM committees on policies so that issues related to race equity are addressed
